yeah this is my first christmas living on my own, so it's kinda cool to have my own tree and stuff... however horribly decorated it may be.

I think that the MPM should take it upon themselves to ensure that Christmas is called Christmas. Not "Holiday", not "XMAS", not anything but CHRISTMAS.

Thank you.

Well, I celebrated xmas yesterday with my girlfriend's family here in Canada. It was a very nice day, felt just like xmas even though it was almost a week early.

We'll be flying to England tomorrow (hopefully without delays etc, though the weather isn't great) and then I'll be celebrating xmas again in England on the actual day.

ooooooohh, i would be sued for saying merry christmas in my town. the people here are all jewish (nothing against judeaism) and i mean EVERYONE. tell me how terrible this is:

at one point in time we had a christmas tree and a menorah. The jewish people in our town complained that they called it a christmas tree. the next year, it was changed to a "Holiday Bush" and they kept the menorah as the menorah. now that is HORRIBLE!

anyways, MERRY CHRISTMAS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! hope there are gifts for everyone! :billy :heart

I hope everyone has a very safe, happy and joyful Christmas, Hanukkah, and/or Kwanzaa. BTW, theres a few inches of snow on the ground in Boise Idaho. Looks like I'm gonna have a white Christmas here. I haven't heard Christmastime in so long. My alternative rock station doesn't play very many Christmas carols, even the ones done by artists they generally play. Maybe if I call them and request it enough they will play it!

yes, a merry christmas to you all, and best wishes from belgium, where it's already dark, and no snow whatsoever, but that doesn't spoil the warm, cosy christmas atmosphere.

Oh yeah, on Friday I was driving to get a haircut and when I got in my car I heard Christmastime! :) KROQ here in L.A. finally answered all of our requests and played it in a block of SP songs. I don't know which other one was played, but I suppose them playing Christmastime was all that mattered. ;-)
