It's pretty good, it is heavy on the Vieuphoria video though. But I suppose that's one of the more widely available collections of concert footage without annoying symbols or supers ovetop of the video (eg. seeing VH1 or MTV plastered on the bottom). Have you ever thought of submitting something for the Ghost Children 2 music video contest? Even editing together pre-existing SP footage (as you have done here) is an option, given that the video is not being commercially released.

i made it vieuphoria on purpose....its my favorite era....and i havent thought of sending anything to ghost children the reason i made this was becasue i was bored, but do you think the pumpkins would put it on their site? :billy

Ah ok gotcha ;). It's possible, its just as good, if not better than some of the stuff they have put up before. However, the SP myspace for example hasn't had any new fan submitted videos on it in a while. But that might have to do with the fact that their webmistress is busy designing the SP official website at the moment according to her personal blog. Not sure when that will be ready.

I love it. I especially love that you used this time, which is such a slow song, and that in combination with those crowds going wild... :) it looks kinda cool
