That's an old demo from the Mellon Collie sessions.

yeah jackboot isn't zeitgeist...

if you've ever heard the Earphoria version of silverf*ck, that's what they play at the end oooh yes with the open bootleg policy and the "experimental" stuff Billy is talking about these will be some fun things to listen/watch. Perhaps finally we will here them bust out some heavy stuff. I am speaking of course of Jellybelly, Geek USA, Fuck You, XYU, all the rest. Maybe we will even see some songs they hardly ever play live too. I'm so giddy!

hmm I dunno if Billy's voice has enough edge like it used to do those songs, but that would be awesome. And he can still belt out Zero so who knows. I was disappointed that they never played Geek USA on their farewell tour so I hope they can dust that one off.

That looks like a really cool set, I'd give anything to have been there or one of the upcoming shows... Im interested to hear some of the new songs that they wrote for these shows.
Now we play the waiting game for the bootlegs to come flying in :)

Re: The Orange Peel Bootlegs

hey guys and gals....I was there saturday night, and it was every bit as awesome as you would imagine. the venue is incredible, and the band was absolutely on top of their game. billy was having a total blast up there. laughing, dancing, you name it. and his enthusiasm is just contagious. the other 3 were loose and enjoying the moment, but at the same time 100% all business. the setlist was intense. there were several moments that were hair-raising, others that were simply breathtaking. they played for just over 3 hours.

I got several pics and some vid's, but they're on a friend's camera, and I don't have the cable to connect it to my computer and download the stuff. and the internal speaker on his camera is broken, so I don't know how the sound quality came out on the vid's. as soon as I can get the stuff downloaded, I'll post it for you. if you're lucky enough to have tickets to any of these shows, you're in for on hell of a time. I have the feeling they will only get better as they settle into a groove of playing the same place several nights in a row. and considering how good they were saturday, that's simply frightening.

is it just me, or was billy singing "Daydream" a little bit of a blow to darcy fans? They rarely ever played it before so why now when the original singer isnt even there anymore. If I were her I would be a little annoyed right now.

It is no biggie. I was tired, and it was 3am. Even then, it really didn't bother me.

ANYhow, I know the setlist says they played "come on (let's go)" but they didn't. I am not sur why. The whole concert is up now. and hopefully before I head to the beach for the week of the 4th, I will try and put the entire concert on 1 dvd, make an ISO of it, and upload it as a torrent.

Ok, if you haven't looked at Jimmypop97's youtube videos from the 6/24 show, DO IT! Watch all three parts of Gossamer. I think it's the best version they have played!!!! It's right up there with the Rock Am Ring version. Does anyone else think that this Ashville version sounds more structured than the ones in Europe? I think that if the studio version of Gossamer sounds like any of the ways they've played it live, it would be like this one. The last 8 minutes or so seemed much more organized. I really love the echo effects Billy puts on his voice towards the end, and I think that's how it's supposed to be. Plus, Billy doesn't really add one of his rants to it.

But anyways, I'm rambling. Check out those videos if you want to see them Kick Ass!! They look so relaxed! They all seem to be having a blast! :)

They DID play "Come on (Lets Go)"

Posted by rompulent - 2007/06/27 08:40

Play the Doomsday Clock vid from the 6/24 show all the way through, about halfway through the clip, they finish off Doomsday Clock, and break right into Come On (Lets Go). It's a short song, since the whole clip is only 6 min long, and half of that was Doomsday...

We should have (in the words of Borat) "Easy access"

Re: The Orange Peel Bootlegs

Posted by rompulent - 2007/06/27 16:59

Yeah, it's almost like the theory of "If you want to stop something, give it away freely". In other words, in allowing and even encouraging people to record their shows, it's almost like everyone assumed everyone else was do it. And so, it never got done. Of course, there are a few exceptions, such as jimmypop97 who put forth all that time to post all those youtube vids, but you'd think there would be a LOT more of that kind of stuff available by now. Honestly, im just bummed that i can't get into dimeadozen! :)

Got some good news and some slightly bad news. I went to last nights show, and also got it on video in it's entirety.

I also talked to one of the pro audio guys, and am going to redo the audio on both my videos with his audio file. The audio from last nights show was not as bad on my camera though because I used a piece of cloth to muffle it, but I am sure the guys audio will be way better.

For the bad news... I go to the beach this Saturday for the week of the 4th, so I won't have time to do this until I get back.

I also got a short clip of Billy outside talking in the middle of a crowd, but the battery stated going dead, so it got cut off.

I need to know a good (FREE) program to use to redub the audio with. Ideas are definitely needed and appreciated!

Actually, Billy has played Rotten Apples live before. I'll post a link if you want to download the song.

Also, the download speed at Megaupload blows. I'm getting like 4KB/s. Can anyone here post another link. I live in LA so maybe that's the problem and the server is on the other side of the country. So can anyone help me or make a torrent for these mp3s?

Murder, you said the music section will be up by the end of the week, right?
Will you have these files ready to download?
Thanks.

That should only last for a short time. With megaupload, wait maybe an hour or two, and it should let you download it. Anyway, that's what works for me. Hope it helps, but otherwise I'm sure someone can post it for sendspace for something. :)

Ok. I was wondering if I can get a favor from all of you. When I was only 16 and had no wheels, I missed an acoustic Pumpkins show that I really really wanted to go to. As it turned out, that was about my last chance to see them in original form. It would have been 8/06/98 at Ovens Auditorium in Charlotte, NC. It was the tour they did completely for charity. Anyone know where I could find it? Any help is awesome!

Murder, on Archive.org there are several mp3 choices such as conversion from flac to VBRmp3 etc etc; any reccomendations which one(s) should sound the best? Note, yesterday I downloaded just "mp3", then VBRmp3, and finally the 16MG mp3 versions of 6-23. I did notice a difference and I think the VBR version sounds the best. Appreciate any insight you may have.

Re: The Orange Peel Bootlegs

Yes, VBR MP3 is the best. VBR stands for Variable Bitrate. You'll notice that the bitrate usually stays around 192 kbps and above. That's optimal for MP3 listening. A 64 kbps MP3 is hardly enjoyable. I'm not really sure why they're even included. I guess they're for previewing.

They are brand new songs that Billy wrote for the Orange Peel shows. He would write one in the morning (or night before) and then play it at the next show. So they will either fall dead and never be played again, or he will do some messing around with them and we could see them released some way. :)

Don't get me wrong. I LOVE how the Pumpkins keep things fresh by coming up with new versions of old songs.

HOWEVER, I hate what they've done with my two favorite songs from Machina, Glass and the Ghost Children and Heavy Metal Machine.

I always just assumed that those were such fan favorites that they'd keep the same structure and riffs from the old days.

Oh well, I'm just glad they're playing them at all

I'm eager to hear the mp3 version of HMM. The YouTube one isn't that great. You can't really make out what they're singing or playing. It sounds like he breaks into a whole different song in the middle or adds new lyrics.

And I agree, if you do a different version of a song, it should still be very similar to the original, or else it's not the same song.

While we're on the subject, does anybody know of any SOUNDBOARD quality shows from 2007 besides Rock Am Ring? I know a lot of the Audience shows are pretty good, but I'm surprised no leads of any good Soundboard material other than what was on German Tv? Since they don't care if we get hold of the shows, you think they wouldn't care if we have the best recording possible. I wish they would release ALL the shows directly from the soundboard like Pearl Jam did- that pretty much wipes out bootlegging and (in the case of the who) the money went to charity. Maybe we could start a petition to get them to relase all the shows thru "the music.com" web site or something....

I personally do rather like the new version of GATGC, but with a lot of bootlegs of other versions of songs, I do often hope that they break into the original at some point, or at least introduce a riff. I really liked the Adore era version of BWBW because it retained some elements of the original. Plus, all the teaser riffs in the intro to that song are awesome.

I like the way they've redone Glass and the Ghost Children and I think it's cool that they're adding variety and changing some songs up, but I miss the drum intro to that song, it was classic Jimmy doing what he does best. But still, I'm enjoying everything else they're doing :)

7/2/07 Orange Peel Show - Wanted Bad

Posted by satterleem - 2007/07/05 06:49

Hello to all. This is my first post since the pumpkins ended in 2000 as I'm a little rusty as to where to go to find information as well as bootlegs. Seems that www.smashingpumpkins.com and www.spfc.org do not have any forums to help out. Any other forums/bootleg sites (etree, etc.) out there that I should know about?

Mainly I am after the 7/2/07 bootleg and would like a copy of the 7/3/07 bootleg so that I can have a copy of Drown played acoustic. Also, I'm really liking "The Song I Sing" and desperately want a copy of that song. Can anybody help me out or point me in the right direction?

Thanks in advance for your assistance. Glad to see Billy happy about playing pumkins songs again. Thank god for Chamberlain!

as far as the discussion on the Pumpkins somewhat re-doing songs when they play them live goes, they've been doing that for years so you shouldn't be surprised that they do that. for me personally, i kinda like it. what's the point of going to a show just the hear the band play the song exactly the same way it is played on the album; just stay at home and listen to the album then.

in changing the subject, is anyone going to change the bit rates on the 6/29 show from flac into other rates like there is for the other shows or am i going to have to download the flac files individually?

Yeah me too! I think are two of the best songs on Zeitgeist yet I don't think they played them once. To be honest I really thought they would mix the sets up a lot more than they have. I don't know if there are artistic reason's for this or maybe they just don't know all the songs as a 'band' yet.

No 'Try, Try, Try' or Ava Adore, both of which I think would fit in great along side the rest of the songs in the current set list.

daretohearafool link=topic=1633.msg28827#msg28827 date=1183746147] is anyone going to change the bit rates on the 6/29 show from flac into other rates like there is for the other shows or am i going to have to download the flac files individually?

ok, so i found a different upload of this concert here <http://www.archive.org/details/sp2007-06-29.csc.flac24> with all the different versions to download

So... who here has downloaded all of these shows and can tell me the following? Just been too busy at work to deal lately unfortunately.

What is the best quality (recording/sound wise) show out of the 9 shows?

What is the best acoustic set played out of the 9 shows?

What is the best acoustic song played out of the 9 shows?

What is the best version of an older song (Gish, Picies or Siamese)?

I'd greatly appreciate some answers to these questions so that I can start downloading away. I've already got 7/2 and 7/3 which is the two shows I attended. Thanks!

im confused. The set list for the 07/05/07 is different on your link to what it says on thesmashingpumpkins.com.

Which is right?? it says it starts with Pslam 131

Thanks, thats great but the set list is not the same as on the official website.

There is no Death from above or Orpheus Descending.

Can someone please make a folder with all the new songs they played at the Orange Peel? Not Zeitgeist songs, I mean the new songs made in between shows and stuff. Please! :jamescry
