Thank you kindly for the song. It is an amazing epic. Someone mentioned that you can download an entire show from their tour, where exactly do I go to do that? I am new to this site and don't know how things how.

Thanks again!

Anyone know where or how I can either see or hear the new song "Gossamer"???

I just received my copy of Zeitgeist and noticed NO GOSSAMER!!!Can anyone elaborate? I thought this was a new song. If it is, any idea where a studio version might pop up?

It is new. They wrote many new songs... not all make it on a CD. It's been known for a while now that it wouldn't appear on any version on the album.

Any rumors as to which b-side it will be?

I figured out not all songs make in on cd's when I bought "judas O & freinds/ememies" and realized they left all the best tracks off of Machina!

Billy said in Germany that this song was no studio recorded but that they want to record it live.

Did he REALLY say that? That would be pretty awesome, as long as the recording will be of HIGH QUALITY.

I think this song is meant to play live only, it's just fantastic!

What is the best version of Gossamer so far? Every version is a little different and every recording has different quality. I'm trying to find the best one for my iPod.

It's for sure the Rock Am Ring's version. BY FAR.

I don't see this as a studio song. part of its appeal is the improved parts that change from night to night, and a studio recording would just take that element away completely.

and for the record, I don't like the rock AM ring version as much. 3 guitars is too many...they get in each others' way.

the person playing that 3rd guitar totally has no idea wat he is playing and i think ruined it!!!! :upset :upset

I'd have to disagree as Uli did mess up a bit in the first half but it is sweet towards the end. It is the best sound quality though coz it's from the soundboard. Best to track down a decent version from archive.org I reckon.

We should put a main Forum post petition up asking for a studio version ;) post it on the smashing pumpkins website and keep bumping it

YES.
Gossamer is my new love at the moment. But if they make a studio version it better be just as good as it is live.

Gossamer is amazing and so much so that i can't even put it to words. I don't think they will ever put a studio version of it out, but hell I don't need it. They will most def put it on a live cd and it will definately be on the dvd.

Actually now that I remember, the one from Rock am Ring sounds a bit different than the ones I heard at The Fillmore. But still, I can't get enough of this song.

Re: Gossamer

I think the gossamers played at the fillmore are better and more fine tuned than the earlier versions, but Jimmy's gossamer solo at the grand rex was the best i've heard. it was spot on.

Re: Gossamer

I have to say, after hearing it a few times live, it gets better and better. But then again, a lot of songs are better live. Like Dougy said, United States live is much better Studio-and it is. So I'm kind of fearful if they do a studio version of Gossamer.

Re: Gossamer

Posted by robertedge - 2007/08/19 02:22

but i like the studio bersion of US way better than live!!

Re: Gossamer

irregardless, a studio version would be fun to hear and it's not like it would suck...

It would be interesting to hear a studio version of Gossamer, I have to agree. I have it stuck in my head at the moment.

Re: Gossamer

They should just let it evolve till it can be put on its own album called "Gossamer" Track one: Gossamer and thats it....

How long would that one be? Since the ones I've heard go from 20-30 minutes long. :)

Re: Gossamer

Posted by whyIHOP - 2007/08/21 10:34

i said this on another topic about something i don't remember anymore but.....5 hours long on 3 discs or something like that didn't jethro tull do something like that with "thick as a brick" i think it was like 40 some odd minutes and was on both sides of a record.

Re: Gossamer

Posted by doomsdayclock - 2007/08/21 12:23

i don't think it'll ever be it's own album but it will be released, i want a studio version though, that would be nice...
