im watching southpark..I am laughing out loud. and im inspired. theyre mostly sex words for me. like poon hahaha (yes its funny but im cringing) horny or randy (and its so hard as all the words for wanting sex are sooo lame) fanny, which is bottom in the states but means pussy here, or a common name in england for a girl in like the 19th century, it makes me cringe.

and terms like "love hole" yeah, ive heard that and i cringed.

turd makes me cringe, there are heaps...so what words make u cringe?????

Whats/Whos Bogans?

Anyway words that make me cringe...um

Appologies now for all you Americans. But I really do Cringe when you say Tomato (toe-mar-toe not toe-May-toe) and Aluminium (AL-You-Min-He-um not AL-Um-in-um).

but hey oh life goes on.

Would 14 be considered a young kid?
And also,
Words that make me cringe:
Jam
Stoked
Cunt
The N word
The F-A-G word
gay (when used as a derogatory term)
Jew (In texas it's a racial slur for jews, Yeah I don't get it either...)

I agree, using words like "fag" and "gay" when it's not appropriate annoys me to no end. You say words like that around here, and you'll get in trouble. Unless it's gay pride day, then everyone's saying it.

"Jew" is a racial slur in Texas? My friend is Jewish and she says it all the time-then again, she can get away with it because it his her religion.

yeah, I never understood the whole "Jew" thing either. We have it here in Colorado too.

Anyway, this isn't a word and it's somewhat off topic. But one thing I can't stand is when people will make up something and say it just to sound smart or thought provoking.

For example,
In my honors english class we're reading "The Bean Trees". And my teacher has us have book discussions everyday. Anyway, theres this one chapter when some guy leaves his pregnant wife and takes alot of stuff like a TV, food, all the books and magazines, etc. Well, he also took all the toothpaste in the house. So my teacher asks the class:
"Why do you think Angel (the man) took all the tooth paste?"

The answer obviously being that he took the toothpaste because he wanted to make life as hard as he could for his wife, some girl trying to act all smart and deep says:
"Maybe it symbolises that he wanted to "clean up" his life."
I dont know if that made sense to any of you but boy did that make me cringe. Luckily the teacher just shot down the thought by saying she was thinking too deep.

Jew is a racial slur in Texas? I live in Texas... I've never heard of that. I thought calling a jew a jew is like calling a christian a christian or etc. Also, words that make me cringe??? em, probably just all the rap lingo.

I agree with the homosexual slanders. Fart, toot, or "I have to take a giant fucking duece" makes me cringe when it's spoken by a female... I hate the word "twat". Anything that comes out of Fran Dressures (or however you spell her awful name)mouth.

"Bling" makes me cringe.
And while I don't mind the f-word generally, when people use it prolifically as their sole adjective and adverb in front of every noun and verb, I go from cringing to just turning off.
Expand your vocabulary!

The words "Barf" or "Vomit" REALLY make me cringe and shudder. I don't know why. Except for "Upchuck" it just reminds me of the character in the show Daria.

Fur Burger always reminds me of Neil Patrick Harris on "Harold and Kumar." BEST CAMEO EVER.

Words that irk me:

-any racial slur. guh. It just floors me how archaic and moronic people can be. And I don't find it acceptable either when people of that same race use it too. This might be the only thing I agree with Jesse Jackson on.

-stink. I'm prissy. I don't like icky things.

-"gay" being passed off as "neutral" slang. Unless you mean "happy" or "homosexual" (in a non-derogatory way) I am liable to punch you for making this kind of covert intolerance okay.

-"emo" when other journalists misuse use it. Panic at the Disco is not emo. My Chemical Romance are not emo. In fact, the only band with somewhat of a following that's ever described itself as emo is Piebald. Real emo isn't man mascara.

-pussy

-fart (sometimes together, ewwww.)

-celebutant

-to "beef"

-to "pork"

-spluge (sick. Seriously.)

I'm done. I'm grossing myself out, haha.

Anything incredibly ignorant or stupid always makes me cringe.

When discussing a Keats poem: "Cortez?!?! He's the dude off Pirates of the Caribbean isn't he?"

I want to shoot them all now.

As for euphemisms for sexual organs, I do believe the best one is "porksword".

The word 'peeps' everytime anyone says this word I want to top myself... I HATE IT grrrrrrrrrr :angry: !!!

Also the word 'lol' urrrgh, doesn't even deserve to be called a word but whenever anyone says this it makes me want to break things. By say I mean whenever someone types it on the net OR if some person says it in real life ;) !

Anything racist. Words like "owned" or "own3d" or "poned" or "pon3d" or whatever else the videogamers have come up with lately. Also, when people use chat room talk in real life. Like being at a movie and hearing someone say "lol!" or "OMG!".

Ok, two things that really get on my nerves:

-It's "I couldn't care less." not "I could care less."

-It's "Buck naked" not "Butt naked"

I hope most of you know this.

If this continues, then soon we will be living in a world where everyone talks without realizing that what they're saying doesn't make sense.
