I was wondering what was going on. I just figured it was gone forever since it was not working for so long. I just randomly check to see if its back. This is awesome. With this break I’m sure there is lots for us all to talk about!

Yes, you will get an explanation, but first I would like to finish cleaning up the board. I certainly do think Sam should be a moderator, if he's willing.

Yah, just cos I didn't subscribe to the topic I started, I just started it, guess it subscribes to topics creating by you by default? meh.

EDIT:

Does this incarnation of tp.net forums load really slowly for anyone else? I'm using Firefox 2.0.0.8 by the way.

Gone so long, only to make such a lame forum downgrade?

I'm admittedly underwhelmed...

However, it's the discussions that matter, and not the forum, right?

Well of course, I will take the offer.

Thank you very much. I am honored.

I haven't been posting much since the site came up, because of the board's current confusing condition. I will check back in when everything's in order.

BTW, I am in favor of Sam as a Moderator - he started an interim site for us while this one was down.

Good to see everyone back. I hope the word trickles down to the rest of our members.

Everyone keeps commenting about the look of the site. I believe it's still in a "limbo" period while Murder cleans everything up. It's a work in progress. Everything will be back to normal soon. Be thankful, things could have been worse.

Re:THE SITE\S BACK UP!!!

Posted by Murder McMurderson - 2007/10/30 17:02

Okay, this what happened.

The website was experiencing a lot of downtime and it was being caused by the forums. This website runs on Joomla, and the forum used to run on SMF. To sync these two things together I used a forum bridge.

Recently Joomla changed its license to adhere to a strictly GPL Open Source policy. This made many developers angry, and as a result many developers stopped working on their Joomla projects. The forum bridge stopped releasing updates and there is almost no support anymore.

Because of this, I decided to migrate to a different forum system, one that was incorporated directly into the Joomla framework. I decided to use Fireboard.

On the day I put the website offline, I started to make the transition to Fireboard by converting the thousands of messages. I was met with a myriad of problems in the conversion process which constantly kept giving me errors.

This went on for a couple of days and I wasn't sure what to do. Put the site back the way it was? Put up just the website with the forum? Put up the forum without the website? Put up the new forum without the old messages? I wasn't satisfied with any of that, so I decided to take a break for a while.

I built a new computer during the break, and I accidentally lost all of the site data that was on my hard drive, but it was still all online, so that was okay. Some of my graphic and website software like Photoshop stopped working with Windows Vista, and then on top of that, I forgot to pay the bill for the server. That's when the site went down.

With the new smashingpumpkins.com, I started wondering if ThePumpkins.net was really needed in the online community. They had many of the features that we have on this website, and they have the audio files and videos and image galleries, and more users. And I must admit, my enthusiasm for the band just hasn't been the same as it used to be. I wasn't sure what to do.

But when I returned online and saw all of the emails and the new website that Sam started, I saw that people really did miss the website and were thoroughly curious about where I've been. I decided to get back to work. I've gotten past the problems, and the forums are up and working now.

I apologize for my absence and for not replying to the emails. I hope everyone had a good September and October. Let's keep going. :D

Thanks Murder. I (We) appreciate all the hard work.

I for one hate smashingpumpkins.com, and would prefer this site to keep going. If you wanted to take down the audio/video/galleries I really wouldn't mind. The forums are where it's at.

Glad your back...I never lost faith :james (smilies are back!)

And I'm also glad I made that temporary site.
Apparently that contributed to the site's return :yay
I'm not going to delete it just in case.

And furthermore:
YAY!!!

technical mishaps aside im still pissed. a message would have been standard. if you dont care for the site/band as much as you once did please get sam on board.

i think some of us were starting to assume that something bad had happened to you too!

either way its good that its back.

Glad to see the site back and that your OK!

Allot of us where genuinly worried that something bad had happened to you.

As it turns out it seems to have been allot of techincal bad luck.

and tbh I can easily relate to you just wanting to put things aside for a while, having experience with building PC's myself :p its damn hard to stop yourself throwing the things out the window sometimes....LOL smashingpumpkins.com has no community, yeah its got the audio and video etc etc but this place is by far the best for discussion!

Yeah - thanks for coming back Murder - The Band is dissapointing but I think the people here are more than SP fans now. We are a family and we truly want to stick together (which was proven with Sam's site) Sure, we all first came here out of love for SP, but now I think it's more about the community. Hey, I'm not even a fan of this "New SP" but I still come here everyday...4 you people!!! SO HERE's TO Jay and HERE's to US...to everyone who makes this site what it is!!!

P.S. - WHat the fuck is smashingpumpkins.com?????

Re:THE SITE\`S BACK UP!!!

Thanks Murder.

BTW, is there any way to send a mass email to all registered users letting them know the site is back up? Most of the regulars are here, but we were getting a lot more traffic right before the site was down.

Re:THE SITE\`S BACK UP!!!

Posted by Murder McMurderson - 2007/11/02 14:31

I'm pretty sure I can do that. I think I'll wait until the holidays to send everyone some sort of happy holidays message. That should remind everyone that we're still here. The site will be a little more presentable by then.

This place is much friendlier, nicer, and built with a natural sense of humor lacking in a lot of Pumpkins fans I noticed. I like it much better than asshole.net (blamonet) or hatephoria.
