the sleeping with your friend thing :/

Posted by yteah - 2008/02/24 15:30

so basically, last weekend i ended up cuddling and kissing with my good friend, i dont know how it happened, we had a massive pillow fight with her cousins/my other friends, then we were watching the simpsons movie like that, lol

we talked about it the next day, cause that was insanely weird, we both agreed it was nice and no regrets then a week of hanging out and calling eachother about 100% more than usual, since i dont call em unless its the weekend, but i didnt want anything to be weird, talking about nothing really then she gets her older brother to convince me to come drink with them, and when we were all going to bed, he warns me not to crawl in her bed, which i do anyways, and we go a little farther this time, but she is gone before i wake up and we havnt talked about it since, its been two days and i asked her to come over, she just said "you wish boi"

all through this shes inconspicuously showing me pictures and telling me more about her

idk what i expect, but its in my head and would be interesting to hear what you guys have to say about it Seriously, do yourself this fucking favor. Anything else is stupid and desperate.

Growing up I always loved females, caught all the cooties I could, etc. and, of course, looked up to suave guys that could get romance out of any situation, or most. You know these people in life, you know them from film and television, and it warps your mind into thinking that matters of the heart, mind, body have some type of significance so we chase them blindly. For a time now I haven't had a single problem getting a woman, but it's only because I learned the truth, and I'm fucking telling you: Your feelings, the thrill of the chase, the butterflies mean absolutely nothing. With every situation you'll ever find yourself in I promise you that they are all the same- completely and utterly pointless. It's only in having a recurring or enduring type of relationship that anything means something, that feelings matter or the relationship is somehow important and poignant.

Your friendship with her has significance and purpose and use and beauty. These feelings you're having because you rubbed necks like fucking cats is pointless, and unless you think you're going to marry this chick you need to back off and save face.

well, the situation i had closest to this was there was this girl that i thought was cute, and i wanted to get with her, so i became her friend, and we got closer and closer, till we did, but then things just got awkward for a while, and we stopped talking for a while, stopped seeing eachother, until now (this was about a year ago) and now we are good friends, and i dont learn, but i am thinking of her again.....and i think she really likes me.....( i dont want to ruin this again, the difference between my story and ur story is that u were actually friends with her before you wanted to be with her...so..i guess im a dick 4 getting to be friends with her just so i could hook up with her.....

just give it time, and then dont fuck up again, like im probably gonna do

You don't need to go anywhere to get shit, chief. I don't aim to offend any lady folk that may read this, but you don't 'need' one for a damn thing, and you certainly shouldn't just 'want one'. When you run down the tally list, all the marks are on the negative side- they cost money, time, require physical and mental and emotional care, distract you from priorities, so forth and so on. Unless you have a sane, rational, in all ways mature broad that's also sexy on your hands, they can only offer you orgasms and breaks in silence (yes, those two things are kickass, but they're also you selling yourself short).

If you just go about your shit, focusing on #1, women will take note. Otherwise what you're doing is going out to wherever it is prowl for vagoo, looking like a dumbass puppy dog, then get baited by some broad into you giving a shit while she doesn't have to do anything, and I don't care if her name is Abigail or Zumeeka, she recognizes it and will never respect you. I'm going to say that again- if you want a female they will pick up on it and get you invested while not getting invested themselves. You buy them a drink, dress up extra nice every day hoping she'll 'finally notice', whatever- you're hooked and she's not, she sold and you fucking bought. She'll end up giving you lip about bullshit, testing you all the time by asking trick questions about her, you, the world, and generally walking all over you (while it's not some constant, intense thing it's there, and no man should tolerate that shit), and why would they not? Taming a man isn't like taming a horse- we're more difficult and do more than run and turn on Furry fetishists. I'm not talking about snubbing them or some neg-theory shit but rather caring about yourself enough to let them fall into your lap, where she'll be from then on if you act like a man and never stumble in that. This idea in the heads of males these days, the thing that makes them BOYS their entire lives, is a feeling of inferiority to women, like their opinions equate to truths. I don't know about you, but I think that shit is for the birds.

You go out into the world every day, don't slouch, push your shoulders back, focus on making yourself as awesome as possible, and the seeds will be planted. You'll come to a place in your life where you hit on women simply for kicks, because it'll be them trying to buy what you are selling.

I feel like a poor man's Obi Kenobi right now, but I'm serious- even if it's just some small fling it still creates habits, and bad habits with women are fatal.

Marty (or do you prefer chris? haha)

This reminds me alot of my last girlfreind, except i gues we were officialy together, rather than not being sure what was going on

I had been freinds with her for years and years, and when i first met her i had a bit of a thing for her, but i never realy had the balls to ask her out (this was when i was about 14), i got over that pretty quickly, and never realy had feelings for her again for ages. Then over a couple of weeks she started showing signs that she was interested in me, i tried to ignore them, kept telling myself i was probably just making it up. But it started getting realy obvious, but i realy didnt want a girlfreind, so i ignored it again for a while. Then i just started getting realy lonely and i didnt know why, and she was still interested so i went for it. I guess i just told myself that maybe somewhere deep down i still liked her as i used to. We went out for like 4 months, but it was a realy strange relationship, we never realy talked at all, i would say our relationship was just physical, but we never slept together (well, didnt have sex, but we did literally sleep together), then after a while we just realised that it was all a waste of time and broke it off.

I recomend you stop doing what you are doing and go back to being freinds (if its not too late), iv sworn off relationships for a while, i dont believe its worth it at all- you have some fun for a while and then end up getting hurt in the end, its just a big fucking waste of time

I totally understand what your goings through; I'm not going to give as good advice as the gifting I just think his or her views or quite dark, but I love theme (life isn't just rainbows and sunshine) but my girl friend is insanely hot and we are quite young to be getting series, so really I don't know what to do about it all.

It's a bit off topic <http://www.thepumpkins.net/images/fbfiles/images/4026246606a69421623251.jpg>

You don't need to go anywhere to get shit, chief. I don't aim to offend any lady folk that may read this, but you don't 'need' one for a damn thing, and you certainly shouldn't just 'want one'. When you run down the tally list, all the marks are on the negative side- they cost money, time, require physical and mental and emotional care, distract you from priorities, so forth and so on. Unless you have a sane, rational, in all ways mature broad that's also sexy on your hands, they can only offer you orgasms and breaks in silence (yes, those two things are kickass, but they're also you selling yourself short).

If you just go about your shit, focusing on #1, women will take note. Otherwise what you're doing is going out to wherever it is prowl for vagoo, looking like a dumbass puppy dog, then get baited by some broad into you giving a shit while she doesn't have to do anything, and I don't care if her name is Abigail or Zumeeka, she recognizes it and will never respect you. I'm going to say that again- if you want a female they will pick up on it and get you invested while not getting invested themselves. You buy them a drink, dress up extra nice every day hoping she'll 'finally notice', whatever- you're hooked and she's not, she sold and you fucking bought. She'll end up giving you lip about bullshit, testing you all the time by asking trick questions about her, you, the world, and generally walking all over you (while it's not some constant, intense thing it's there, and no man should tolerate that shit), and why would they not? Taming a man isn't like taming a horse- we're more difficult and do more than run and turn on Furry fetishists. I'm not talking about snubbing them or some neg-theory shit but rather caring about yourself enough to let them fall into your lap, where she'll be from then on if you act like a man and never stumble in that. This idea in the heads of males these days, the thing that makes them BOYS their entire lives, is a feeling of inferiority to women, like their opinions equate to truths. I don't know about you, but I think that shit is for the birds.

You go out into the world every day, don't slouch, push your shoulders back, focus on making yourself as awesome as possible, and the seeds will be planted. You'll come to a place in your life where you hit on women simply for kicks, because it'll be them trying to buy what you are selling.

I feel like a poor man's Obi Kenobi right now, but I'm serious- even if it's just some small fling it still creates habits, and bad habits with women are fatal.

haha, dude, i totally just figured that out myself. what a great piece or advice. its pretty funny to read that the second time. :heart :overjoyed

Ok, well I guess I can put an "older" perspective on this. You have to be really really careful when you cross the line of intimacy with a close friend. More often than not it can be an end to the friendship because one of you will want the commitment for more, and the other won't. But, don't NOT do it out of fear - make sure you talk about it first, even if you have to put off the heat of the moment. There is something very very special to be said with having a "friend with priviledges" that you can hang with as buddies. . or if you are in the mood, go for something more and not feel bad about. Be there for each other if you have a bad break-up. The SAFE "go-to" person. It can be a very rewarding relationship if approached the right way. Been there, done that.

lol, she dislikes me now too. what a weird situation even afterwards. no calls or anything. and last time she mas kind of being a bitch to me (her room mate agreed with me on that) so i dont have a need to be friendly except for the circle of other friends that frequent her house.

so yeah we have not been talking for like three weeks, or at least wanted to talk to each other.

lol, yeah that makes no sense when you think about it. i think i heard it on tv, you know what it implies though.

we never hung out while she was with her bf because there was no reason to, then she broke up with him and was hanging at pauls house all the time, so i says "can we throw a party at your house this weekend?" and then we started going there every weekend and having little get togethers, we werent close at all until we started liking eachother.

i just have no idea why she's mad at me, it may have been because i drunkenly told ali i was kind glad joey left again, but i dont want to ask either of them, lol, hopefully she gets done being mad at me so i can have fun at her house without the whole stigma, if thats the word...

No, because it wears you out so much that you want to sleep...

Hmm thats kinda weird, sounds like any normal lead up to a hook up...

no news really, she just called me but i wasnt home, and they (her and her bf) had a party friday, but i was working, and only got called by her bf. shes just probably the coolest chick i've ever gotten close to. thats all. lol

i was just, all giddy when i saw her number on the caller id, and kinda smitten with her voice mail message. its really drawn out and casual "so... uhm... leave us a message?" type thing. so im like "psh, im dumb"
