
Quick question...

Posted by TurnsLeftLooksRight - 2008/05/13 11:13

Hi, whats up. I've been looking for The Aeroplane Flies High Boxset for a while, and think I finally found one for the right condition, price, etc. Only I want to get some of your opinions so I know it's not a fake.

if you have any questions you might wanna go look over at spfreaks.com they have a whole huge collection of sp items, and are very helpfull.

in my humble opinion, what you have looks real.

Id imagine it would be quite hard and a lot of effort to make a fake aeroplane flies high with the booklet and box etc... but that one looks very real to me

I have seen TAFH with the incorrect singles before, but yeah there are no "fake" ones that I know of.

Thumbs up on the avatar!

Did you win?

If so, what do you think?

You've had about two weeks to receive and listen to it..

Unfortunately, I lost that one. I did find more, but something came up financially. Dammit...every time I close in on one I either lose it or a huge bill hits me in the face..

I'll try again in a few weeks after everythings sorted out. Dying to hear the songs...and I've been fighting the temptation to just download them (I want the box lol).

If it helps, you can buy the individual songs (minus TAFH and Pastichio Medley) from iTunes for like $25.

:D I think, you can't do that on a collector:D

to be honest, I found Pastichio Medley so hard to get without buying the whole box set that I recorded it in stereo from rollingstone.com. I used a free program called Audacity and recorded the song straight from my computer, convertet it to mp3, and then put it on iTunes.

I think I discovered the best way to get free music but I don't do it very often because: not approve Yeah, but it's the same thing as preferring a CD to an iTunes album (mp3) due to the superior sound quality. I like to have a case to look at, album artwork. Or in this case, a trippy looking box.

Well in the case of Pastichio Medley, it doesn't really matter, because the sound quality of that song is only as good as the demos that are on it.
