I've never seen an episode of that show. I prefer Entourage, which I suspect is the male version of Sex in the City.

sex and the city is a really good show, my husband can even watch a whole episode without making one nasty comment.

The only two movies I can be bothered with this summer are Indiana Jones and The Dark Knight.

yeah, sometimes he will leave the room, but he will watch it, he said it looked stupid, at first, but then when he watched it he kinda got inot it, when i say carrie and big, he corrects me and says john, cause that is bigs real name, i know probably to much info for most non satc people, but i love it.

i am also excited about the new indiana jones movie, i have watched the last 3 like 4 times this week in preporation, can't wait can't wait, to many good movies to go and see.

i can't belive how old harrison ford looks, but i know he can still kick ass.
