Dang, Ruby. I'm completely jealous of your list!

I don't have tickets to the following but fully intend on going:

The Hives/The Donnas
St. Vincent/Foreign Born
Coachella
Editors/Hot Hot Heat/Louis XIV

And many more, I'm sure, as more tours are announced.

I'm going to Europe this summer, so I'm going to try and get Radiohead tickets, yeah I know I won't get them, but I'll still try.

So far, I know that I'll be going to see The Cure and Western Civilization (a local band.) I'll see more I'm sure, but that's all for the roster right now.

At the moment I'm only seeing Interpol, which is next month. I hope to see the Pumpkins this year, but it may not happen if they don't do a full tour of Australia :(

Roger Waters is doing a very small Dark Side of the Moon tour. Tickets are expensive, but I suggest anyone in the area go.

April 27 - Coachella Festival
April 30 - Denver, CO
May 2 - Dallas, TX
May 4 - Houston, TX
May 11 - Landgraaf, Holland
May 13 - Odense, Denmark

...a few hours from Dallas, and sadly I can't go. :(:(:(

I've only been to one show this year, and here's the small write-up I did for another forum-

02/02/08, @ The Masquerade in Atlanta, GA.
White Chapel, Emmure, Cephalic Carnage, & Darkest Hour.

- Missed White Chapel, but very much like their Louis Vuitton merch.
- Emmure sounded pretty good, from what I heard. There was a lot of crowd support for them, and they didn't disappoint their fans.
- Cephalic Carnage fucking rocked. Great set, awesome pit (I haven't seen someone get knocked the fuck out in a pit for a long time, until last night), fantastic guys to hang out and smoke with.
- Missed the first half of Darkest Hour, being backstage with Cephalic Carnage, but you could hear them even then and they were on last night. We went back out for the second half of their set and speed and precession were abundant and very obvious. I was beyond impressed seeing them live.
- Obligatory drunk guy ref: "I only drink margaritas if they're DARK AND FUCKING SOUR!"

Grade: A
It would be A+ if I didn't down 4 cans of PBR.

That show aside, I don't know when my next will be. I have medical problems now, which really suck, by the way.

I'm determined to go to the Radiohead show(s) in Los Angeles but I think I'll just hold out and purchase on Craigslist closer to the concert dates.

I've got some good ones coming up/just went to:

*Nada Surf/Sea Wolf (pretty ace, but it felt like the 90s again, haha)

*Lili Haydn (a rocknroll violinist! Bill Maher opened with some standup comedy)

*Bamboozle Left (ACE weekend with My Chemical Romance, New Found Glory, Alkaline Trio, Jimmy Eat World, Reel Big Fish, Blaqq Audio, Face to Face, Paramore and a ton of others)

Coming up ...

*COACHELLA. Dude. I get to see PRINCE. happy dance

*She Wants Revenge/Switches/Be Your Own Pet/The Virgins

*REM/Modest Mouse/The National (gonna be SO AMAZING)

Oh man, Radiohead would be so frikkin' awesome!

I don't have enough money to go to concerts often... Only when a band comes that I would REALLY wanna see I make the effort to get the cash.

I think Tool are considering coming to NZ... but it's a definite "maybe", no certainties about it.

I drunkly bought tickets to Dave Matthews/Black Crowes the other night. I don't even really like either of those bands...oh well.

Hehe Geek NZ i'm in ur position when it comes to concerts vs costs :(...

But yeah so far this year has been *the almighty Smashing Pumpkins
*local Battle of the Bands, which sadly our band didn't get accepted into (lateness and unorganisation possibly?)

Still to come...

Foo Fighters in May

hopefully but unlikely is Splendour in the Grass fest

If Radiohead came our way i'd go without any wallet hesitation :D

Re:Concerts in 2008

Posted by Geek N.Z. - 2008/04/13 23:45

Disorganisation is a killer for bands... :notapprove

I got a job recently, vacuuming at the school my mum teaches at after school. I'm gonna save up for unexpected tours from bands I like.

Re:Concerts in 2008

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/04/14 20:35

So far this year I've seen...

The Foo Fighters

Serj Tankian

Les Claypool

I'm going to see...

The Cure (again)

R.E.M.

The Black Angels (AGAIN-hahaha)

BFD (Big Fucking Day-radio summer festival. Pretty fun. Although last year's bands were MUCH better. But the tickets are only ten dollars this year. So might as well).

I was going to see Iron Maiden, but we already had tickets to see The Cure on the same night. I was pretty upset about that one.

Last year's BFD consisted of...

Silversun Pickups, Social D, Queens Of The Stone Age, Bloc Party, Shiny Toy Guns, Interpool, Kaiser Chiefs, Cold War Kids, The Bravery, Tiger Army...and much more.

I'll have to look up this years, but you can go to:
www.live105.com and see for yourself.

I know Cypress Hill is there..

I would love to know who will be playing at Splendour in the Grass in Aus, they usually get most the bands from Fuji Rock Fest and those in Japan, but still not everyone does both... If i new it could change my mind from i want to go, to i'm going to try and be there ;)

Iv never thought the cure were much of a live band, not that i dislike them, they are probably my 5th favourite band, but they dont strike me as much of a live band

Hey funny about the Cure, i've just been getting into their music after i bought an album, then my dad tells me he saw them back on their first Australian tour and everyone thought he was a freak cause he didn't wear a trenchcoat, safety pins, and whatnot else... i would have loved to have gone to their last tour down this way a while back, was meant to be great.

Re:Concerts in 2008

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/04/24 19:01

I saw them at Download Festival in August. They were the headlining band so we had to wait through AFI (not my cup of soup) to get to them.

During the middle of the show (we were out on lawn) some crazy drunk dude with his shirt off and his beer belly fat jiggling around went running around the lawn with his arms flailing in the air screaming, "KILLING A MOTHER FUCKING ARAB!"

Certainly a memorable night.

... so Coachella was, of course, amazing!

Highlights:

Flogging Molly (and running to an ex in the pit, hehe)

PRINCE SINGING RADIOHEAD

Meeting David Hasselhoff in the Gogol Bordello pit

MIA

My mind exploding during Roger Waters cos the INFLATABLE PIG was there

Stars

Death Cab

Rilo Kiley

Goldfrapp

Sia

Serj Tankian

and NOT getting a sunburn! :)
