

---

Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/05/26 13:38

---

So for the long weekend Live 105 (radio station here in San Francisco) decided to do the "Memorial 500" a list of the 500 most memorial songs.

Since it's 500 songs and too long of a list, I'll just post the link. The Smashing Pumpkins made a few appearances on there.

<http://www.live105.com/pages/2236747.php?contentType=4&contentId=2094410>

Thoughts?

I spent my long weekend studying for finals.

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/26 17:27

---

i got a new car, well new to me if you want to see it go to <http://forum.spfreaks.com/viewtopic.php?t=499>

i am very proud of it.

also did some housework.

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PistolPete - 2008/05/26 18:19

---

That car is pretty damn sweet. Is it in good condition? I'm not crazy about the green color though, I think it would look awesome with a glossy black finish. Maybe a white racing stripe...or red ghost flames. Yeah!

I got sunburned and drank a lot of beer.

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/27 04:17

---

thanks i am loving the car well i was thinking orange and black for it, but then the green started to grow on me, and i am thinking green and black, the hood and on the back a fin that is black, with some gto judge pinstriping on the sides.

no drinking for me, dry county, you can get in trouble for drinking on your own front porch here.

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/05/27 20:24

---

You can get in trouble for drinking on your front porch?

Wait...whaat?

---

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/28 04:44

---

yeah, in a dry county you aren't allowed to have any alcohol, beer, whiskey, whatnot. Most of the sheriff's officers wouldn't really take you to jail, but if they wanted to they could. so it is just better if you don't drink on your front porch. and if they catch you with any type of alcohol, that you aren't drinking, it can be considered bootlegging. actually a lot of people around here go to the liquor store, about 45 miles away and get a lot of beer, and whatnot, then they mark up the price and sell it, they are bootleggers.

funny huh?

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by doomsdayclock - 2008/05/28 05:51

---

PersianBellyDancer wrote:

So for the long weekend Live 105 (radio station here in San Francisco) decided to do the "Memorial 500" a list of the 500 most memorial songs.

Since it's 500 songs and too long of a list, I'll just post the link. The Smashing Pumpkins made a few appearances on there.

<http://www.live105.com/pages/2236747.php?contentType=4&contentId=2094410>

Thoughts?

I spent my long weekend studying for finals.

looked through the list, pumpkins had all their hits from mcis, siamese dream, with drown and landslide as well. (No tarantula, depressing) Quite a few though, i believe only the chili peppers beat them.

i basically chilled over the weekend, watched some hockey.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/28 06:26

---

i checked out the list, they had some great stuff on there.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by cundinamarca89 - 2008/05/28 08:53

---

here's another 500 memorial day list.

from california.

there's quite a few pumpkins on here.

but not as many as last year's list.

<http://www.kroq-data.com/kroqnow/memorial08/list.html>

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by Trillian - 2008/05/28 15:09

---

Man, suckitude. I listened to KROQ off and on the whole four days and didn't hear an SP song once!

---

Though it was great to hear "oldies" from Mazzy Star and The Smiths again. KROQ these days seems to be female-phobic, outside of Paramore!

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by Geek N.Z. - 2008/05/29 00:15

---

What the fuck is GTOWBW?

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PistolPete - 2008/05/29 05:12

---

GTO with Butterfly Wings

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/29 06:59

---

yes, that is correct. i think i am gonna go with bwbw, but not for sure yet, i do like gtowbw.

and i am thinking of that green, but darker like the original color, but with way more metal flake in it, then flat black the hood with hood scoops, and the flat black fin on the back, and i am gonna do some custom paint on the back of it, where the emblem is right now i am gonna paint a bullet with butterfly wings, and but "bullet" in curly cursive under it. i am way to excited about the car.

i do like the black with red ghost flames though, that would look awesome, but a bit out of my price range. flat black is alot cheaper, and i can have my husband do it. :)

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by doomsdayclock - 2008/05/29 07:06

---

haha, that kroq list is basically the same as the list at the top of the page, except it has a few more pumpkin songs on it.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by Geek N.Z. - 2008/05/29 17:44

---

I don't know, i think you should maybe stick with an acronym that more Pumpkins fans will notice and realise. Not all Pumpkins fans are car fans... (like me)

How about this big shwag:

IAMONE
MCIS
1979
ZERO
TAFH
TEITBITE (if it fits) JUDAS0 (especially cool because the 0 would likely be a slashed one)

---

Out of those, I think I Am One would be most recognised by SP fans, otherwise they might just think it's a coincidence that your number plate says xxxxxx and not want to honk at you.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/05/30 11:05

---

bulletwoutbutterflywings wrote:

yeah, in a dry county you aren't allowed to have any alcohol, beer, whiskey, whatnot. Most of the sheriff's officers wouldn't really take you to jail, but if they wanted to they could. so it is just better if you don't drink on your front porch. and if they catch you with any type of alcohol, that you aren't drinking, it can be considered bootlegging. actually alot of people around here go to the liquor store, about 45 miles away and get alot of beer, and whatnot, then they mark up the price and sell it, they are bootleggers.

funny huh?

Crazy. I've been to countries where alcohol is banned. But that doesn't really stop the people.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by HeavyMetalMachine - 2008/05/30 11:07

---

IAMONE would be awesome.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PistolPete - 2008/05/30 11:29

---

PersianBellyDancer wrote:

bulletwoutbutterflywings wrote:

yeah, in a dry county you aren't allowed to have any alcohol, beer, whiskey, whatnot. Most of the sheriff's officers wouldn't really take you to jail, but if they wanted to they could. so it is just better if you don't drink on your front porch. and if they catch you with any type of alcohol, that you aren't drinking, it can be considered bootlegging. actually alot of people around here go to the liquor store, about 45 miles away and get alot of beer, and whatnot, then they mark up the price and sell it, they are bootleggers.

funny huh?

Crazy. I've been to countries where alcohol is banned. But that doesn't really stop the people.
Dry counties suck. There are several where I live. Plus, on Sundays you can't buy alcohol anywhere in the state.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by Geek N.Z. - 2008/05/30 16:15

---

This thread is crazy. It's got like, three discussions about three different things.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by PersianBellyDancer - 2008/05/31 03:19

---

PistolPete wrote:

PersianBellyDancer wrote:

---

bulletwoutbutterflywings wrote:

yeah, in a dry county you aren't allowed to have any alcohol, beer, whiskey, whatnot. Most of the sheriff's officers wouldn't really take you to jail, but if they wanted to they could. so it is just better if you don't drink on your front porch. and if they catch you with any type of alcohol, that you aren't drinking, it can be considered bootlegging. actually a lot of people around here go to the liquor store, about 45 miles away and get a lot of beer, and whatnot, then they mark up the price and sell it, they are bootleggers.

funny huh?

Crazy. I've been to countries where alcohol is banned. But that doesn't really stop the people. Dry counties suck. There are several where I live. Plus, on Sundays you can't buy alcohol anywhere in the state.

My friend lives in Arizona and they have a law in their city that you can't buy alcohol before a certain time. And she said she saw two grown men in what seemed to be their early 40s run into the supermarket grab some beer and run out.

Yeah this thread is getting kind of chaotic. So back to topic:
My memorial day weekend of studying paid off. I'm officially done with finals.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/05/31 08:12

---

PersianBellyDancer wrote:

PistolPete wrote:

PersianBellyDancer wrote:

bulletwoutbutterflywings wrote:

yeah, in a dry county you aren't allowed to have any alcohol, beer, whiskey, whatnot. Most of the sheriff's officers wouldn't really take you to jail, but if they wanted to they could. so it is just better if you don't drink on your front porch. and if they catch you with any type of alcohol, that you aren't drinking, it can be considered bootlegging. actually a lot of people around here go to the liquor store, about 45 miles away and get a lot of beer, and whatnot, then they mark up the price and sell it, they are bootleggers.

funny huh?

Crazy. I've been to countries where alcohol is banned. But that doesn't really stop the people. Dry counties suck. There are several where I live. Plus, on Sundays you can't buy alcohol anywhere in the state.

My friend lives in Arizona and they have a law in their city that you can't buy alcohol before a certain time. And she said she saw two grown men in what seemed to be their early 40s run into the supermarket grab some beer and run out.

Yeah this thread is getting kind of chaotic. So back to topic:
My memorial day weekend of studying paid off. I'm officially done with finals.

i have lived in several places that are dry counties, they suck.

=====

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by ghostchild - 2008/06/01 17:35

---

Hey bwobw...I live in a dry county too, in the same state as you....I don't think the fuzz has any right to do anything to you for drinking alcohol on your own property. The dry county law only prohibits businesses from selling it. They can't stop you from buying it from a legal business in another county. We border a wet county and there are 3 liquor stores and 2 gas stations right on the county line...it's about 10 minutes' drive from my house. We drink on the front porch all the time...cops drive by and very clearly see it and never do anything. People leave empty beer cases and liquor bottles in their garbage cans at the curb on garbage day too and the cops can't use that as evidence against you. I believe the state law that says you have to be 21 to buy it trumps the county law that says businesses can't sell it....make sense?

=====

---

Re:Memorial Day-Memorial 500

Posted by bulletwoutbutterflywings - 2008/06/01 19:42

---

well it is a bit diffrent here in rockcastle, they can take you to jail for it, or at least they do, and most people might not know enough to fight it. no they can't stop you from buying it in a legal county, but if they catch you on your way home with it in a dry county they can take you to jail if they want to be dicks, and belive me, here they like to act like that. i am pretty sure that this county is like 20 years behind the rest of the country. ;)

=====